Message from the Director

Dear Members of the Royal Global Family,

“What good is the warmth of summer, without the cold of winter to give it sweetness.”

— John Steinbeck

As I pen down this message, our minds and hearts begin to drift toward the long-awaited summer break—a time of pause, play, purpose, and peace. The vibrant painting on our cover page, crafted by Navya, transports us to the lush landscapes of Kerala and the timeless grace of Kathakali. Her artwork sets a graceful and contemplative tone for this issue. The painting reminds us that even as we take a break from school routines, beauty, culture, and tradition continue to inspire and shape our lives.

So much has happened in so little time—each day of this term unfolding like a fresh chapter, rich with purpose and participation. We began with World Environment Day, when the entire school swung into action to reinforce our commitment to sustainable living. From plantation drives to eco-talks, it was a collective pledge to nurture a safer, greener planet. Our youngest learners brought joy through their heartfelt celebration of Father’s Day. Hand written notes, laughter-filled games, and warm hugs rekindled cherished childhood memories for many of our visiting fathers. Meanwhile, health awareness took centre stage as our primary children engaged in a Healthy Eating Workshop, and the impactful “Sugar Board” sensitized everyone about the dangers of excessive sugar consumption and the rising risk of Juvenile Diabetes.

A series of inter- and intra-class competitions kept the Primary School buzzing—Young Digital Creators from Grades 2 to 5 amazed us with e-posters, videos, and cards, while poetry, extempore, and recitation activities showcased their growing confidence in public speaking. One of the most defining moments of the term was the Investiture Ceremony, where members of the Junior and Senior Prefect Council took the oath of office—pledging to lead with integrity and purpose. The proud parents and student leaders later joined the Director’s Dinner, a grand evening of grace and celebration, with stellar performances from the Our Senior School Inter- House Debate was a fierce contest of ideas and eloquence—with all four houses displaying brilliance. Vivekananda House emerged victorious, followed closely by Gandhi House as the runner-up.

Performing Arts Department that added sparkle to the night. Adding an academic flourish, the History Department presented an Art-Integrated Interdisciplinary Exhibition, “An Era of Epic”, exploring the Mahabharata through creativity and collaboration. The Department of Assamese commemorated the death anniversary of Kalaguru Vishnu Prasad Rava with moving performances for Bhasha Divas, while the International Yoga Day brought harmony, mindfulness, and strength through the ancient wisdom of yoga.

As academic assessments like the Cambridge Progression Tests and CBSE Periodic Assessment concluded, students were immersed in dynamic activities: the Freshers’ Fiesta in the boarding houses brought warmth to new joiners, while RGS hosted the prestigious CBSE Career Counselling Seminar, attended by over 200 school leaders.

The introduction of Teacher–Parent Meetings (TPM) brought a deeply enriching dimension to our school–home partnership. For the first time, teachers visited students’ homes to share and celebrate their progress across academics, behaviour, and co-scholastic development. What made the experience truly memorable was the warmth, respect, and admiration with which our parents received the educators. For many teachers, it was a moment of profound affirmation—reminding them that their years of dedication and service to the profession are not only valued but deeply cherished. The term concluded on a high note with a vibrant Language Summer Camp, where departments of Hindi, Assamese, French, and Sanskrit engaged over 160 students in immersive activities. And finally, our students stunned us with the Mock Round Square Meet on “Environmentalism”—a student-led initiative that showcased leadership, teamwork, and passion for sustainability.

Reflecting on this term, I am reminded of the invisible thread that ties us all—students, teachers, parents—in a shared mission of purpose and growth. It is here, in this harmony of collaboration and creativity, that the soul of Royal Global School truly lives.

As we step into the summer break, let us carry forward this spirit. Summer is not merely a pause—it is an opportunity:

To reflect with mindfulness,

To engage with kindness,

To rediscover ourselves with joy,

And to coexist meaningfully with nature and each other.

Wishing you all a safe, restful, and enriching summer.

“And then, the sun took a step back, the leaves lulled themselves to sleep, and summer was born.”
